

Attorney Alex Galindo with Curd, Galindo and Smith, LLP Files Suit on Behalf of the Family Alleging the Wrongful Death of Colton High School Employee Phyllis Wilson

The family of Phyllis Wilson has sued the City of Colton, architectural firm, Harley Ellis Devereaux and DJM Construction Company Inc. in the Superior Court for the County San Bernardino alleging that their negligence caused her wrongful death.

San Bernardino, California (PRWEB) June 06, 2012 -- Attorney Alex Galindo with the Law Offices of Curd, Galindo & Smith, LLP has filed a wrongful death suit in San Bernardino Superior Court Case No.: CIVDS 1201461 entitled Temple v. City of Colton et al. The complaint alleges claims against the City of Colton, architectural firm, Harley Ellis Devereaux and DJM Construction Company Inc.

According to court records the family of Phyllis Wilson alleges in their lawsuit that DJM Construction Co. and Harley Ellis Devereaux, through their contracts and agreements with Colton Unified School District to build an additional math and science building, failed to provide the Colton High School staff with adequate replacement parking and accommodations for disabled staff members. Due to the lack of adequate parking, faculty and staff were forced to park off site and cross Valley Boulevard in order to get on to campus.

The San Bernardino Sun reported that on February 8th, 2011, Phyllis Wilson, an instructional assistant at Colton High School, was struck by a car while crossing Valley Blvd. on her way into work. Shortly after being transported to the hospital she was pronounced dead due to injuries sustained.

The family of Phyllis Wilson is seeking general and compensatory damages in an amount to be proven at trial for past and future loss of earnings, loss of love, support and affection. The City of Colton as well as the other defendants deny any liability.
